YOUNG MAN ENDS LIFE IN SHOOTING GALLERY

In a Twenty-fifth street shooting gallery, a photograph group out the doleful strains of a sentimental song which he claimed was a favorite with his wife, Bert Bates, a resident of Salt Lake City, placed the muzzle of a rifle to his temple and fired a bullet into his brain. The shooting occurred about 5 o'clock last evening and death resulted at the Dece Memorial hospital an hour and a half later.

Bates did not regain consciousness after the shooting and therefore made no statement regarding his motive for wishing to end his life, but it is the belief of the police that a temporary insanity resulting from his failure to secure work led to the act. The officers claim that he was not intoxicated at the time.

Letters found in the pockets of the clothes worn by Bates indicate that he came to this city to secure work and in fact was employed by the Utah Construction company for some time, but for the past several days he was without employment. These letters also show that he was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bates, residing at 953 West South Temple street, Salt Lake, and the father was notified at once.

Three Trips to Gallery.
The shooting gallery in which Bates fired the fatal shot is located at 164 Twenty-fifth street and was recently opened by William Scheffer. The proprietor was not present at the time of the shooting, the place being in charge of a young lady, Miss Lily Devine.

According to Miss Devine's story, Bates first appeared at the shooting gallery about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At that time Scheffer was present. Bates appeared to be examining a rifle, pulling the trigger and looking into the barrel, but the weapon was not loaded. The proprietor, fearing that the prospective customer would accidentally discharge one of the other weapons, told Bates to put down the rifle, asking him if he wanted to shoot somebody around there. Bates replied that if he shot anybody it would be himself.

The Salt Lake man returned to the same place about a half hour later and when Scheffer asked him if he was going to shoot at the targets, Bates replied: "No, not while you are here."

Returns Third Time.
It was shortly after 5 o'clock when Bates returned to the shooting gallery for the third time. Miss Devine was alone in the place at this time. A photograph had just completed the rendition of a popular sentimental love song when Bates entered and it is supposed that he had stood outside listening to the place. He asked Miss Devine to play the record over again, stating that the song was a favorite with his wife, who was down in Salt Lake and that she had often sang it for him.

The young woman complied with the request and after Bates had listened to the first verse he said he had a nickel and would take a couple of shots at the targets. Picking up a rifle, he appeared to examine it, but suddenly placed the muzzle against his right temple and pulled the trigger. He fell to the floor unconscious and a hurried call was telephoned to police headquarters.

The injured man was removed to the city jail in the patrol wagon and a physician summoned. It was found that the bullet, a .22 calibre, had penetrated the skull almost in the center of the temple and passed along near the front of the skull, penetrating the brain. It was not possible to remove the bullet and Bates was taken to the Dece Memorial, where he succumbed at 7:30 o'clock. The remains were removed to Lindquist's undertaking rooms.

Letter From His Mother.
There were two letters found in the young man's pockets. One was from his mother, and the other apparently from his sweetheart, Margaret Stanley, who also resides in Salt Lake. Both were written on August 15 and had been mailed in the same envelope, each letter referring to the other.

In her letter the mother expressed her satisfaction at the knowledge that her son had secured employment, but was surprised to learn that he was not working with the outfit with which he had intended to go when he came to Ogden. She asked him to let her know and prove to his friends that he was a man.

The letter from Miss Stanley was along the same lines and contained phrases which indicated that the young woman was in love with Bates. The evidence which leads the police to believe that Bates had been employed by the Utah Construction company was a receipt from the hospital department maintained by that corporation. There was no letter or note which would in any way explain remove the bullet and Bates was apparently about 26 years of age.

He registered at the Ogden house on Thursday under the name of Frank James and slept there that night. Other than this his movements are not known. It is claimed by Scheffer, the proprietor of the shooting gallery, and the clerk at the Ogden house that the two brothers of Bates were with him yesterday. Neither of the supposed relatives appeared at police headquarters last evening.

In a telephone message from the Salt Lake police late last night it was learned that Bates was only an adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bates, residing at the address given above. The foster father stated that he would communicate with the local authorities regarding the disposition of the body.

INVINCIBLES MAY MEET WITH DEFEAT

For the past many weeks the career of "Dad" Gimlin's baseball team has been uninterrupted by a defeat. Seemingly the unending chain of victories by varying margins has become monotonous to the fans and for the past several games the "pull" of a great mass of the fans has been with the visitors, the opponents of the home guards.

Is this disloyalty? In a way, yes; but perhaps the fans had their own interests at heart and desired a closer game instead of a defeat for Gimlin's men. Be that as it may, the outwardly expressed wish of the fans is quite likely to happen on Monday afternoon when the Ogden club will have as its opponent the combined teams from North Ogden and Huntsville.

To use an old and in this case a very correct phrase, the suburbanites are going to "double team" on Gimlin's fast bunch. Baseball is a peculiar game in many respects. One team may have the ability to completely outclass another and provide the same number of men are pitted against each other, but add even two or three men to the inferior team, which has been done many times by way of experiment, and it more than doubles the strength of that particular team.

On Monday will be demonstrated the very interesting result of two men on one side for every one on the other. Fancy if you can a baseball lot peopled with eighteen men, a lone batsman trying to smash the ball over or through this human barrier, and you have a correct idea of what this game will look like. It seems to spell certain defeat for the former state leaguers.

CHAMPIONS MAY MEET SKYSCRAPERS

Baseball fans who are anticipating a repetition of the previous game when the Sioux Indians clash with Gimlin's men tomorrow afternoon are pretty sure to see an old rose opportunity to revise their deductions when the runs are counted. It is not at all idle to hazard the guess that the going is not nearly so apt to be easy.

There's a reason. There are several reasons. The Indian team has been strengthened by the addition of three new players, men from the defunct Kansas state league. Those who have seen the Indians play since their game in this city a few weeks ago say there is a marked difference, particularly throughout the infield. That's not all. Since their first game the Sioux have been bumping into a few real baseball clubs, Pocahontas, Twin Falls, Nampa, Wells, and a dozen others, are on the list. During this time and throughout their travels up and down Utah and over into Idaho the team has dropped two games. It took the Nampa team ten innings to win one of these games. Yesterday down in Layton the Indians took that team to camp by a score of 16 to 4. Today they will lay over in this city and rest up for the game with Gimlin's men tomorrow afternoon. The indications are favorable for quite a game.

That Salt Lake Series.
The prospects for a series of five games with the Salt Lake team of the Union association at the end of the league season are becoming more favorable daily. Yesterday a member of the Ogden team received a letter from Captain Blankenship of the Sky Scrapers.

Blankenship expressed himself as being very anxious to play a series with the former state leaguers and said that the other members of the team had consented to lay over at the end of the season in order to play the series. With this end in view he requested that a member of the Ogden team go to Salt Lake early next week for the purpose of arriving at satisfactory terms and arranging for the games.

It is quite probable that a majority of the games will be played at Salt Lake if the series is arranged, but the Ogden fans will not be deprived of an opportunity of seeing the teams in action on the local grounds at least once or twice during the series.

AGED WOMAN LOST; APPEALS TO POLICE

There were a few children lost yesterday, but none of the unfortunate youngsters gave the police half the concern that did Mrs. Henry Leming, an aged woman who became separated from her relatives and was found wandering helplessly about the streets last night. Mrs. Leming is almost 60 years of age and is a stranger in the city.

She came to Ogden with her married daughter from Hoytsville, Sanmit county, to see the circus yesterday. During the day the daughter accepted an invitation to spend a few hours with friends and during her absence the aged woman became confused and appeared to the police when she could not locate her relative. She was taken to a downtown hotel, where a room was engaged for her. The daughter, obtaining trace of her mother during the evening, called up the hotel on the telephone, but learning that her mother was comfortably established for the night, decided to let her remain at the hotel. The clerk was unable to secure the daughter's name.

LORCH FAMILY GREET FRIENDS

About thirty people, members of the management and performers of the Ringling brothers' circus, were guests of the Lorch family at a dinner party given at the Reed hotel last evening. Among the guests were Charles Ringling, one of the owners of the big show, his wife, son and daughter.

The Lorch family is an aggregation of skilled acrobats and is appearing on the opening bill at the Orpheum theater. For two seasons past they were the feature acrobatic act with the Ringling circus, having left the tent attraction only a short time ago to appear on the Orpheum circuit.

It naturally was a pleasant reunion for both and the Lorch family spent yesterday afternoon in greeting their old friends who still remain with the circus. As an evidence of their appreciation of the meeting they gave the informal dinner party at 5:30 o'clock, this early hour being necessary to permit of all parties concerned making good on their "turn call."

DARING HOLD-UP IN HEART OF CITY

Mike Carney, who is almost 60 years of age, was the victim of a hold-up last evening and was relieved of a check for $22 and $50 in cash. Carney boards on West Twenty-first street and the police have every reason to believe that his holdup story is correct in every detail.

The old man stopped at the buffet bar on lower Twenty-fifth street while on his way up town last evening to see the circus. While in the saloon he made the acquaintance of a tall stranger, who consented to accompany Carney to the big show.

They were approaching the circus grounds and were passing through a vacant portion of the lot when the tall man struck his aged companion, falling him to the ground. The younger man had little difficulty in relieving his victim of the cash and check. Carney could give the police but a meager description of the hold-up.

STUDY THE SALINE DEPOSITS OF UTAH

Senator Smoot has just been advised that the United States Geological Survey is going to make an extensive investigation of the saline deposits in Utah, Nevada, Oregon and southeastern California in the hope of finding sufficient potash salts to have a commercial value. As a part of this work the Geological Survey will soon fit up a temporary laboratory at Fallon, Nev., for the purpose of testing samples of salines from the great basaltic desert areas.

At the Fallon laboratory samples of alkaline salts will be tested free of charge by the government experts if a definite statement of the locality from which they were obtained is submitted with the samples. The location should be given by section, township and range. If possible, otherwise by distance and direction from the nearest postoffice or settlement. These samples should be addressed to Hoyt S. Gale, United States Geological Survey, Fallon, Nev. Upon receipt of a request small sample sacks for sending the material by mail will be forwarded from the Fallon laboratory. If so requested at the time that a sample is submitted for test, the accompanying information concerning the locality of the deposit will be treated as confidential, and the evidence thus obtained is not to be used for the purpose of making land withdrawal.

Congress appropriated $20,000 for an investigation of the possible sources of potash salts in the United States and Senator Smoot is hopeful that the work to be done by the United States Geological Survey this year will develop valuable potash deposits in the desert area of Utah. One of the possible sources from which potash may be derived is the saline deposit left by the drying up of large bodies of salty water.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR THE CANNERS

This week marked the opening of the canning season in Ogden and surrounding territory and by the middle of the coming week the factories which will be operated this year will be in full operation on full time, according to the statements of those who are in a position to know.

All of the general officers who were interviewed regarding the outlook for the present season speak in optimistic terms on the subject. The crops will be somewhat backward but it is claimed that the full estimate of several weeks ago will be more than equalled in the ultimate output.

"We will operate four of our seven factories this season," said A. L. Brewer, manager of the consolidated canning factories. "The four factories, Plain City, West Weber, Perry and Willard, are now in operation and employing about eighty hands to the factory."

"The outlook appears favorable. The tomatoes and peaches now being put up are very good in quality and while the season has been a little late I feel sure that the output of our factories will fully equal the estimate made a few weeks ago."

I. N. Pierce, president of the Utah Canning company, stated that his company early in the week had opened up its factory for the season but that the plant would not be in operation on full time until the coming week. He estimated that the output of the factory for the season would be about 40,000 cases.

"I can hardly tell just now what the season outlook is," said Mr. Pierce. "It seems, however, that there will be a fair crop but possibly not as good as it indicated two weeks ago. This is due to the inability to get the needed water. The late spring and frosts also interfered somewhat, but I feel sure that our output will not fall more than 25 per cent below the average."

The Salt Lake Valley Canning company's factory at Roy opened up last Monday but has not been working full time this week. William Craig, the general manager of the company, said that the season outlook was good, although the tomatoes did not seem to be of extra good quality.

"We have been putting up some fine peaches," said Mr. Craig, "and the peaches will be fine, but not over very fair to all concerned. The Roy factory opened with about thirty people employed and we expect to put up about 20,000 cases of fruit and tomatoes."

Owing to the failure of the tomato crop in many parts of the east it is said that there will be a big demand for Utah tomatoes this season and consequently there will be a keen demand for raw material. Canners will make an effort to handle every pound of the available supply.

POLICE FRUSTRATE ATTEMPTED BURGLARY

What is believed to have been an attempted burglary was frustrated last evening when two men were discovered in the act of breaking a rear window at the Leander Moulding grocery store, corner of Washington and Twenty-seventh street.

The police were notified and responded promptly but the supposed burglars evidently became frightened and retreated without attempting to enter the place after they had broken the window.

COUPLE'S MARRIAGE IS END OF CASE

A sequel to the arrest of a young couple in a room at a local hotel a few days ago, came yesterday when Miss Daisy Hanson, aged 17 years, and George Fewes, aged 21 years, were united in marriage. Both of the young people belong in Pocatello and came to Ogden but a few weeks ago.

The girl was employed as a waitress in a restaurant and the arrest was made when the couple were found occupying the same room. They were kept at the city jail for several days and finally turned over to the juvenile court.

It was learned that the mother of the girl was willing that her daughter marry Fewes and this course was deemed the most advisable. Consequently the marriage took place here yesterday. It is understood that juvenile authorities secured a position for the couple on a farm near Harrisville.

KAYSVILLE WOMAN DEAD AFTER LONG, ACTIVE LIFE

Kaysville, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Eliza Hudson of Robins, Idaho, formerly of Kaysville and a pioneer of this county, died at the Dece Memorial hospital this morning following an operation for gall stones.

She was sixty-four years old and had resided in Utah and Idaho since 1849, having crossed the plains with her parents in a handcart company while but two weeks of age. She was born at Winter Quarters, now Council Bluffs, Iowa, in the memorable winter of 1847, when the place was the half-way house for Mormon emigrant trains. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. George Robins, who were among the first settlers of Davis county.

Besides her husband, George Hudson, she leaves nine children and three brothers. The children are Mrs. Clara Hansen of Pocatello, Mrs. Nora Sheffield of Cardston, Alberta, Canada; Mrs. Mary Christensen of Robins, Idaho; Mrs. Frank Smith of Clearfield.

INCENDIARIES BURN DOWN PROVO HOME

Provo, Sept. 2.—The first fire Provo has had for years, resulting in damage of a large amount, occurred Thursday night in the R. S. Hines residence, corner First South and Fourth West street.

The loss was about $2,500 to the building and furniture, which is fully covered by insurance.

The fire was of incendiary origin. It had been started in three or four places, where rags saturated with oil were found, and the upholstered furniture and carpets had also been liberally soaked with oil. The complete destruction of the building and contents would probably have been accomplished had not the firebug taken the precaution of closing all the doors and windows.

This was most likely done to prevent the fire from being seen from the outside till it got well under way, and for that purpose it was effective. The blinds were drawn on the inside of the windows and the outside doors were locked, which shows that whoever set the fire had a key to the place.

Who started the fire, and why, is a mystery, which the officers are trying to solve. The building was owned by Fera Decker, who was in Ogden at the time. He bought the property about three or four months ago on a foreclosure sale against Mrs. Kitty A. Hines. The furniture was owned by Mrs. Hines.

BOX ELDER TO VOTE ON BIG BOND ISSUE

Brigham City, Sept. 2.—The proposition of bonding the county in the sum of $200,000 for school purposes, was thoroughly considered in the last meeting of the board of education, and the board decided to call a special election in the very near future for the purpose of placing the matter before the taxpayers in the county.

The school district is short of funds with which to carry on the improvements necessary to keep up to the increased school population of the county. New buildings are needed in some districts, while other districts need additional rooms added to their buildings, and at the present yearly appropriation for these purposes, it will be a long time before the districts in most need of improvements, will get them.

With a large sum of money at its disposal, the board is of the opinion that they can place the entire county school system in a first-class condition, so that very little expenditure will have to be made for many years to come.

At the meeting held Wednesday, the members from the five districts were called to state the important needs of their respective districts. The needed amount reached $200,000, and the taxpayers will be asked to vote for the issuance of school bonds in this sum. This amount, however, would place Box Elder's schools above those of the majority of counties in the state, as the schools here already rank high.

FRONTIERSMEN DECLARE WHITE BUFFALO A MYTH

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 1.—Exaggerated reports of the exploits of plainsmen who hunted buffalo and fought Indians during the early days were condemned today by sixty old men who met at Independence Mo., as delegates to the annual convention of the Old Plainsmen's association.

"There have been many fanciful yarns written about the old days," said W. Z. Hickman, secretary of the association. "For instance, I read recently that some old freighter told of seeing white buffalo back in the fifties."

"Never was a such a thing," interrupted James A. Howlin, a 32 year old plainsman. "I've seen the prairie black with buffaloes but not a white one."

The youngest man at the meeting was sixty-six years old and the average of the delegates was seventy-nine.

The official call for the coming convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, to be held on September 11, 1911, has been issued. This year the convention will take place in Calgary, Province of Alberta.
